O all Noblemen, Gentlemen, and others, that hath any Fairs to insert in the Almanack; may give them in timeously to the King's Printing house in the Colledge Edinburgh, and they shall be Printed gratis; and any that hath them misplaced, may have them right placed: For that Almanack Printed there hath more Fairs in it, than any other in the Kingdom.

A TABLE of ANNUALRENT at 6 L. per Cent. per annum.

The Use.

TO find the Annualrent of a principal sum by this Table, if the principal sum be under 10 L. seek it under the 1st Column of the Table and towards the right hand in the second Column, you have the Annualrent thereof. But if the principal sum be above 10 L. seek the hundreds or thousands in the third Column, and towards the right hand in the fourth Column you have the Annualrent belonging therunto; and if there be any odd pounds and shillings seek them as before, and add their Annualrent to that which you have found, the total is the Annualrent required.

1 Example.

Suppose it be required to find the Annualrent of 138 L. 13 s. for a year: work thus,
